EXPORTS OF COLONIAL PRODUCE.

AMONGST the many improvements which have from time to time been introduced by the present COLONIAL SECRETARY into our official statistics, not the least is the one which distinguishes, in the annual return of exports, the value of the articles the produce or manufacture of New South Wales, from those of the United Kingdom, of other British dominions, and of foreign states. We would take the liberty, however, of suggesting another improvement. The value as now returned is only that of the aggregate amount of exports; but as it is of some importance that the public should know of what articles the exports of colonial produce consist, it would be well if a separate return of such articles were given in addition to the consolidated return.

We have endeavoured to extract this information from the tables in their present shape; but for want of the details referred to, the results arrived at can be regarded only as approximations to the truth, seeing that some proportion of the exports assumed to be the produce of of the colony may have been re-exports of the produce of other countries.

Having felt some curiosity as to the relative importance of the pastoral interest, in the supply of exportable commodities, we distinguish as nearly as we can, in the following statements, the articles so supplied from those supplied by all other departments of colonial industry.

The declared value of the principal articles of colonial produce (including the District of Port Phillip) exported last year, was as follows:—

Wool		£1,238,559
Tallow		249,932
Live Stock		47,874
Hides and Leather		28,203
Salt Meat		23,972
Total from the Pastoral Interest		£1,588,540
Oil	£45,468
Timber	13,097
Grain	6,771
Butter and Cheese	3,266
Sundries	43,943
Total from all other Interests		112,545
TOTAL EXPORTS OF COLONIAL PRODUCE		£1,701,085

The uncertainty as to these figures fairly representing colonial produce is apparent from the fact, that of the several articles of hides and leather, salt meat, timber, grain, butter and cheese, considerable quantities had been imported during the year, and may of course be to some extent included in these amounts of exports.

But taking the figures as they are, we find that of each £100 worth of colonial productions exported in the year 1849, the pastoral and all other interests supplied the following proportions:

The Pastoral Interest	£93	7s.	8d.
All other Interests	6	12	4
	£100	0	0

But as the transactions of a single year may not happen to form a true criterion of the ordinary state of things, we subjoin the annual average of the same transactions throughout the last three years.

1847—49.	AVERAGE PER ANNUM.
Wool	£1,250,272
Tallow	166,[illegible]
Live Stock	66,752
Hides and Leather	31 047
Salt Meat	22,575
Total from the Pastoral Interest	£1,536,878

1847—49	AVERAGE PER ANNUM.
Oil	64,988
Timber	8,701
Grain	10,118
Butter and Cheese	4,453
Sundries	32,070
Total from all other Interests	£ 120,330
TOTAL EXPORTS OF COLONIAL PRODUCE	£1,657,208

The result of this more extended survey is, therefore, that of each £100 worth of colonial produce exported during the last three years, the respective interests appear to have supplied on the average the following proportions:—

The Pastoral Interest	£92	14s.	9d.
All other Interests	7	5	3
	£100	0	0

So that, as far as the experience of three years teaches, assuming the figures to be proximately correct, more than nine-tenths of the whole export trade of the colony are derived from the pastoral interest!

Much as this state of things is, for obvious reasons, to be regretted, yet, with such facts before our eyes, it is more demonstrable than ever, that upon the labour of our sheep-farmers and graziers the colony is almost exclusively dependent for its commercial prosperity.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—THURSDAY.

SITTINGS IN BANCO.

BEFORE their Honors the three JUDGES.

ESTATE OF ALEXANDER KELLIE.

Mr. FISHER moved for and obtained a rule nisi, returnable in the first term of 1851, calling upon the parties concerned to show cause why the contingent interest of the insolvent under his marriage settlement should not be sold for the benefit of his creditors.

Mr. BROADHURST applied for the costs of the day, notice having been giving of an intention to move the Court upon the matter in the ordinary way.

Their HONORS having intimated that costs would be granted, at the rising of the Court, under the notice now acted upon; in the interim, it was agreed to argue the point at once.

Mr. FISHER, therefore, on the part of one of the creditors of the above estate, moved for an order to the assignee, directing the sale of his interest. This motion was supported by an affidavit as to the existence and the value of the insolvent's contingent interest. The question, it appeared, had been raised before the Chief Commissioner, when two creditors voted for the sale, and three against. The debts of the two dissentient creditors, however, were somewhat greater in amount than those of the three who had pronounced a contrary decision.

Mr. BROADHURST, for the insolvent, showed cause against this application. The Insolvent Act, he contended, left the sole direction of these matters in the hands of the creditors. Although the decision, therefore, which had been given, did not combine the two elements of number and value, the applicant might have sought the concurrence of other creditors, and having obtained them, might have called a special meeting. It was stated, on affidavit, that this application was believed to be made from hostile feelings, and would, if granted, have the effect of staying a negociation for a composition already commenced and progressing.

Their HONORS, although of opinion that they might properly interfere in this case, to direct the official assignee, determined, under the circumstances, to require a report from the Chief Commissioner as to whether the sale would be beneficial to the creditors, such report to be filed on or before the 3rd of February, and either party to have leave to move the Court upon it on the 5th.

ESTATE OF I. MEICKLE, DECEASED.

Mr. PUREFOY moved for and obtained letters of administration to one James Reid, as to the goods of the abovenamed intestate, the next of kin to deceased having declined to interfere.

VAUGHAN v. DALTON.

Mr. DARVALL moved to make absolute a rule nisi, calling upon plaintiff and his attorney to show cause why an order of Court made herein should not be set aside, and the costs paid by the attorney, upon the ground that it had been obtained collusively, and upon erroneous statements.

Mr. BROADHURST showed cause.

Judgment, as in case of a nonsuit, had been applied for in this case, but the application had failed in consequence of statements on affidavit that there had been negociations for a settlement of the cause of action. The costs of the application alluded to were also directed to stand over as plaintiff's costs in this cause, and to abide, in this character, the event of the trial.

The affidavits now used were conflicting. The plaintiff swore positively that offers of compromise had been made, and the defendant wholly denied this assertion. The attorney for the plaintiff, Mr. O'Reilly, explained that the negociations he had stated in his first affidavit to be actually pending were offers of settlement, of which he had heard from his client, this plaintiff, and overtures by third parties who were supposed to be authorised by defendant.

Their HONORS decided, that as the former motion had been refused upon the positive affirmation that negociations were pending for a settlement, and therefore made under an erroneous conception of the facts, the justice of the case would be best met by reversing the former order, and granting judgment as in case of nonsuit, with leave, however, for the plaintiff to set aside this, and proceed with his action on payment of costs, and on giving a peremptory undertaking. They declined making an order for payment of costs by the attorney, because they were of opinion that, although Mr. O'Reilly had acted hastily in making assertions as to matters of which he had no personal knowledge, still he had acted under the instruction of his client, and upon the information communicated by the latter, who was responsible for the truth or falsehood of the statements.

THE QUEEN v. FITZHARDINGE AND OTHERS.

The SOLICITOR-GENERAL moved, to make absolute a rule nisi for the payment by W. G. A. Fitzhardinge and others, attorneys of this Court, of certain sums due to the Sheriff's office as fees.

Mr. FITZHARDINGE appeared to show cause. The application was based upon the affidavit of Mr. Prout, who stated that the sum of £3 odd appeared by the books of the department to be due from Mr. Fitzhardinge for the service of process on account of his clients. Upon this affidavit Mr. Fitzhardinge commented at some length, contending that it was one upon which no rule ought to have been granted. He also objected to this application being made by the Crown, the fees being really due for particular services to the Sheriff, against whom costs could be obtained in the event of his failing in his motion.

The JUDGES were of opinion that this objection was a fatal one, and the SOLICITOR-GENERAL declined to argue it. It appeared, however, that the dispute between the Sheriff's Office and attorneys was purely one of principle; the right to charge these fees in cases under £30 being denied, and the decision of the Court being sought for in order to settle the practice. It became a question, therefore, whether these fees could or could not be regarded as fees of Court. If fees of Court, then the Act of Council would prevent them from being charged in cases under £30. If on the other hand these were not strictly Court fees, then they could not be recovered by a summary process of this kind.

Their HONORS were of opinion that these charges were not to be regarded as Court fees, but as payments to the Sheriff for particular services by the officers of his establishment. Although the bailiff of the Crown and an officer of the Court, it was not therefore open to the Crown to step in as the claimant of these fees, or for the Court to interfere by any summary process for their collection. The same reasons, however, which prevented this interference on the part of the Court, took the fees out of the operation of the Act of Council, and they might be lawfully charged by the Sheriff, in the same manner as by a private individual, for the services performed.

LAWSON v. WESTON.

The Court was occupied for the remainder of the day in hearing argument upon this case, which was a motion for a new trial. The argument was commenced on Tuesday, and not being terminated when the Court rose yesterday afternoon, it will be resumed after the remainder of the term business, if time admits. It is scarcely probable, however, that the argument will be concluded during the present term.

Court adjourned until ten o'clock this morning.

MASONIC DINNER.—The different lodges in Sydney, under both constitutions, will dine together at Clark's Rooms, this evening, when the leading members of the masonic fraternity will be present; and it is intended to present a testimonial and purse to the Rev. C. Woodward, Provincial Grand Chaplain, who is about to leave the colony for England.

THE CANTERBURY SETTLEMENT.—Among the first emigrants to the new settlement in New Zealand are Viscount Mandeville, M.P., and Lord Frederick Montagu, sons of the Duke of Manchester; Sir Thomas Tancred, of Boroughbridge, Yorkshire, and the Hon. F. Wortley, a son of Lord Wharncliffe. Each of the ships had a chaplain on board. Four ships sailed on the 9th September, and two more were to sail about the middle of October. A very handsome piece of plate had been presented to Dr. Jackson by the masters and students of the Battersea Training School, of which he was formerly principal.

OFFICIAL APPOINTMENTS.—We believe the necessary appointments for carrying into effect the new Police Act have been made, and that the following gentlemen have been selected by the Government to fill the new offices. Inspector-General of Police for the colony, Mr. Spain; Provincial Inspectors, Captain Plunkett, Major Wentworth, Captain Scott, Mr. E. D. Day, Mr. Atkins, and Mr. M'Lerie. Mr. David Forbes has been appointed clerk to the Chief Inspector.

MITIGATION OF SENTENCES.—About a fortnight ago Mrs. Angelina Hughes Hallet, sentenced some six months back to two years imprisonment for child stealing, was discharged from Gaol, by the command of His Excellency. Townend, imprisoned for embezzlement on the Commercial Bank, was also discharged on Wednesday last.

POLICE OFFICE.—The sitting magistrates yesterday were, the Mayor, Alderman Egan, Mr. O'Neil Brenan, and Mr. M'Lerie. The free list, comprising as well the cases on the paper for the previous day, contained some sixteen or eighteen charges, the majority of which were either for personal assaults, or for indecorous conduct, in either case the result of holiday indulgences. To whatever cause it is attributable, the fact is undeniable that the holidays are passing off very quietly, and with an entire absence of that "cabbage-tree" ruffianism which for a few years past had manifested itself on festival occasions. It is probable that the recent examples have wrought out their legitimate object,—not so much the punishment of the offender, as to deter others from similar offences. To whatever cause attributable, the citizens may congratulate themselves on the fact. The names on the roster for bench duty at the Police Office to-day are, Mr. Holden, Councillor Josephson, and Mr. Larnach.

JUVENILE OFFENDERS.—Mary Ann Redgate and Catherine Phillips, girls of about eight years of age, were yesterday brought before the Police Bench, charged with having stolen six or seven pair of children's socks from, and damaged a number of vines, shrubs, &c., in the garden of Captain Towns. They did not deny the fact, but one of them said that she was sent there by some one else. The Bench ordered them to find security for their good behaviour for twelve calendar months. The mother of one of the girls was in Court, rather the worse for beer; the other unfortunate, however, who said she had a father as well as a mother, was quite deserted. His Worship (Mr. Brenan) took occasion to remark on the character of the education under which these infants were growing up, but more especially of the heartless conduct of the parents who, knowing the situation of their child, would not take the trouble even to see how it would terminate.

SUSPICION OF STEALING.—A man calling himself William M'Anally, was on Wednesday afternoon taken into custody by constable Harris, on suspicion of stealing a fiddle, then in his possession. He is remanded for inquiry to be made.

STEALING FROM A DWELLING.—Margaret Allen was yesterday committed to take her trial for stealing a coat from the residence of Mr. Cartwright, of Pitt-street, surgeon. It appears that about one o'clock on the preceding day, the prisoner was seen by a person named Wakely, who resides in the neighbourhood, to leave Mr. Cartwright's house with the garment in her possession. Suspecting that there was "something wrong" in the affair, Wakely took the coat from her, and gave her into the custody of a policeman.

THE ROBBERY OF A CALIFORNIAN, AT A LODGING HOUSE.—On searching the premises of Reynolds, on Wednesday, the police discovered, concealed in the cellar, a bag containing sixty-one sovereigns and a half-sovereign. Edwards swears positively to the bag as his property, which, when taken from him, contained 302½ sovereigns. Reynold's wife has been taken into custody on suspicion of having been accessary to the robbery.

HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE, CHINA, GLASS, &c.—Mr Samuel Lyons requests the attention of parties furnishing to his sale this day, at 11 o'clock, at the residence of John Dunsmure, Esq., of the whole of the elegant household furniture, China, glass, plated ware, semi-grand pianoforte, kitchen utensils, &c., as per catalogues, which can be had at the Mart.—Communicated.

The attention of drapers, shippers, and dealers, is directed to Mr. Richards' clearing out sale by auction, this day, at eleven o'clock, of drapery, hosiery, men's and boys' hats, &c.—Communicated.

ENGLISH NEWS.

IRELAND.

(From the Spectator, September 7.)

LORD CLARENDON left Dublin on Saturday morning for a fortnight's tour in the North. He reached Caledon that afternoon, on a visit of three days to the Earl and Countess of Caledon. He was to visit the Earl of Erne, at Crom Castle, for a day; and then to spend four or five days as the guest of the Marquis of Londonderry, at Garron Tower, in Fermanagh. Next Wednesday he proceeds to Belfast to stay from that day till Friday; and the northern metropolis of Ireland is resolved to give him a royal reception. Mr. Corry Connellan accompanies the Lord-Lieutenant, and Major Ponsonby attends him as his private secretary and aide-de-camp in waiting.

The lucrative office of Collector-General of Taxes under the new Dublin Improvement Bill, which public report had long since given to Mr. Maurice O'Connell, the member for Tralee, has been bestowed on Mr. Alderman Staunton, whose name is identified with Irish journalism as the founder and proprietor of the Register newspaper, which for many years was the recognised organ of the late Mr. O'Connell, and the record, as it were, of the proceedings of the once celebrated Catholic Association.—Times Correspondent.

The death of the Very Reverend Holt Waring, Rector of Shankell, places the Deanery of Dromore at the disposal of the Government.

The corn-lifters are at their old trade in North Tipperary. On Sunday last, about one hundred and eighty reapers, and as many more binders and helpers, proceeded en masse to some lands near Nenagh, and cut down fourteen acres of wheat, which they carried off in triumph, having at their disposal a large number of horses and cars. This outrage took place on the estates of Count Dalton; and the marauding tenant recently took the benefit of the Insolvent Act, owing his landlord about £500 rent. He was nevertheless discharged on the promise of fulfilling certain condition, which, it seems, altogether escaped his memory—and he continues to hold the lands clear of all rents and liabilities.—Dublin Correspondent of the Times

SCOTLAND.

(From the Spectator, September 7.)

IN the evening of Friday, a few hours after her arrival at Holyrood House, Queen Victoria hastened to the apartments occupied by Queen Mary Stuart. Her visit was strictly private, and the Times' correspondent reports that an incognito was preserved so strictly, that "the housekeeper who shows the rooms did not know the illustrious personage to whom she pointed out the curious relics placed under her care." "The apartments now occupied by the Royal party," says the same writer, "are in the more modern part of the Palace, erected on the site of that which John Knox's fiery zeal burned down, and which was restored by Charles the Second. Here Charles the Tenth of France resided from 1830 to 1833. The levees of George the Fourth were held in the hall of state on the Eastern side of the Palace. His Grace the Duke of Hamilton is hereditary Keeper of Holyrood, but for a long period of time little has been done to keep this royal residence in good and tenantable repair. Everybody in Scotland had ceased to regard it as anything but a venerable and interesting ruin, worthy a certain amount of care for the sake of old times, and in memorial of the days when the Court lived at the foot of the Canongate. No one ever expected to see the sovereign residing in that quadrangular and turretted old building again. Hence, its occupation by her Majesty has greatly delighted the people of Edinburgh and of Scotland generally.

About ten o'clock on Saturday morning, the Queen and Prince Albert with their four children, drove to the highest point of the Queen's Drive, and thence on foot climbed to the steep summit of Arthur's Seat. A brilliant sky and clear atmosphere opened to an unusual distance the magnificent panoramic view over the varied scenery of Fife, Berwickshire, and the three Lothians—the Ochils and Grampians bounding the distant view on the one hand, and the Lammermuir Hills on the other. Many persons were upon the Salisbury Crags and Arthur's Seat at the same time; but, in deference to the Queen's known desire of privacy, they confined their manifestations of respect to silent obeisances. After the inaugural ceremony in which Prince Albert took a principal part, and which we proceed to describe, the Royal party drove round Edinburgh, and visited Donaldson's Hospital and other institutions.

At one o'clock, Prince Albert laid the foundation-stone of the proposed Scottish National Gallery, on the Mound. The correspondent of the Times conveniently epitomizes the circumstances under which this building had its origin—"At the union of the two countries, a grant of a certain sum annually was agreed to be set apart for the encouragement of manufactures and fisheries in Scotland. The administration of this sum was vested in the hands of two boards, one entitled the Board of Trustees for Manufactures, &c., the other the Board of British White Herring Fisheries. The former contains thirty, and the latter nineteen members, several of them otherwise much engaged by public business. The same secretary and clerks conduct the affairs of both boards; and the offices are at the Royal Institution on the Mound, close to the new building of which his Royal Highness Prince Albert laid the foundation-stone. It appears that the annual amount payable to these boards fell largely in arrear, and with £40,000 of that arrear the institution was built. Now, it so happened that when the grant of money at the Union was agreed upon, the encouragement of art was understood to be included along with that of manufactures; and thus it arose, that when the Royal Scottish Society for Painting, Sculpture, and Architecture, received its charter, it was placed to a certain extent under the wing of the Board of Trustees, who in their turn received some two or three members of the Society into their body. The annual exhibition of the Society, which much resembles that of the Royal Academy, took place at the institution; and it is believed that the Board of Trustees have derived considerable emolument therefrom. Certain it is, that the Society has always been outvoted by the trustees; that it is much dissatisfied with the treatment which it receives from them; and that it alleges, with the general assent of public opinion, that they are incompetent for the efficient discharge of their trust, which is thus thrown into the hands of a small clique, and carried on in a jobbing spirit. The Trustees in their turn say that they don't want to be bothered with the Society's annual exhibition; that it compels them to displace their own pictures, which are thus exposed to serious damage, and is otherwise a great inconvenience. Out of these quarrels has sprung up a strong desire on the part of the Royal Society to have an academy specially provided for itself, leaving the Institution to be appropriated to other purposes. The Society had saved some thousands of pounds, and Government were asked to obtain a grant of public money for the object in view. They agreed to do so; and the amount of the vote which they carried, instead of being handed over to the Board of Trustees for expenditure, will, it is understood, be administered through the office of Woods and Forests by a Committee of the Board, consisting of his Grace the Duke of Buccleuch, the Lord Provost, and several other very efficient names."

The building will be the repository of works of art belonging to the nation, and the school wherein the Scottish Royal Academy will collect its pupils. Both the Gallery and the Academy are to be under the same roof, and to be parallel with each other along the extent of a structure running Southward from the Institution towards the Free Church College, and standing separate from the former edifice, while harmonising with it in general character. "There are to be two four-columned Ionic porticoes at either end, and a large transverse portion of six columns in the centre on either side, to break the otherwise monotonous effect of an extent of dead wall considerably longer than the Institution, and plainly decorated with pilasters. The light is to be entirely from above; the rooms within to be shaped in octagons and squares; and the estimated cost of construction is £40,000, and the Royal Scottish Society £15,000. If the edifice when completed at all resembles a design of it published by the architect, it will prove a very great architectural acquisition to the city of Edinburgh."

The ceremody of laying the foundation-stone was striking. "Prince Albert was loudly cheered as he passed in procession along Prince's-street, attended by an escort of cavalry. On alighting at the institution, a royal salute was fired from the frowning battlements of the Castle, and with grand effect. On all sides, wherever the eye turned, countless multitudes of human beings were assembled. The whole space southward sloping upwards to the many-storied houses of the Old Town was filled with a perfect sea of heads. On the flat roof of the Bank of Scotland, and on the graceful galleries of the Scott monument, and far up on the battlements of the Castle—in fact, everywhere whence a commanding view could be obtained, groups of spectators were clustered." The ground was admirably kept by the High Constables of the city, "under their valiant and loyal Moderator," and by the Royal Scottish Archers—"the Queen's body-guard." Prince Albert proceeded through a canopied passage to the spot where he was to officiate, shaking hands with several whom he recognized on the way. The Reverend Principal Lee offered up a prayer for the success of the edifice. The Lord-Justice General presented an address to Prince Albert, which suitably touched on the objects of the building, and closed with a complimentary glance at the Prince's "magnificent undertaking" the Show of Industry, and a rejoicing reference to her Majesty's sojourn in the ancient palace of her ancestors. The usual masonic manipulations having been gone through, Prince Albert addressed the Lord Justice General and those more immediately around him. Prefacing with a few expressions of courtesy, he said—"The building of which we have just begun the foundation is a temple to be erected to the fine arts,—the fine arts, which have so important an influence upon the development of the mind and feeling of a people, and which are so generally taken as the type of the degree and character of that development, that it is on the fragments of the works of art come down to us from bygone nations that we are wont to form our estimate of the state of their civilization, manners, customs, and religion. Let us hope that the impulse given to the culture of the fine arts in this country, and the daily increasing attention bestowed upon it by the people at large, will not only tend to refine and elevate the national tastes, but will also lead to the production of works which, if left behind us as memorials of our age, will give to after generations an adequate idea of our advanced state of civilization. It must be an additional source of gratification to me to find, that part of the funds rendered available for the support of this undertaking should be the ancient grant which at the union of the two kingdoms was secured towards the encouragement of the fisheries and manufactories of Scotland; as it affords a most pleasing proof that these important branches of industry have arrived at that stage of manhood and prosperity, that, no longer requiring the aid of a fostering government, they can maintain themselves independently, relying upon their own vigour and activity, and can now in their turn lend assistance and support to their younger and weaker sisters, the fine arts. Gentlemen, the history of this grant exhibits to us the picture of a most healthy national progress,—the ruder arts connected with the necessaries of life first gaining strength; then education and science supervening; and directing further exertions; and lastly, the arts, which only adorn life, becoming longed for by a prosperous and educated people. May nothing disturb this progress; and may, by God's blessing, that peace and prosperity be preserved to the nation which will ensure to it a long continuance of moral and intellectual enjoyment."

This concluded the ceremony; and the Prince almost immediately after returned to Holyrood House, amidst the acclamations of the multitude.

The Queen left Edinburgh for Balmoral, at half-past eight on Saturday morning; the cannon of the Castle thundering a royal salute, which thousands of the inhabitants echoed with loyal shouts. As far as Cupar Angus the journey was by railway, but at that point the rail was abandoned, and the road through the heart of the Highlands by way of the Spittal of Glenshee was pursued. At every halting-place and point of view along the whole line, the people of all ranks were found crowding, to gratify their curiosity or manifest their respect. Balmoral was safely reached before seven in the evening.

Sunday is left blank in the diary of the Royal progress; but it is noted that on Monday and Tuesday the Queen drove out with her children in an open carriage; and Prince Albert went out shooting with the Prince Leinengen and Sir George Grey.

The trial of Mr. Thomas Henderson, captain of the Orion steamer, and of John Williams, her second mate, for the "culpable bereavement of the lives" of the passengers who were lost by the wreck of that steamer off Portpatrick, took place at Edinburgh at the end of last week, before the High Court of Justiciary. It was proved that during the second mate's watch the vessel approached closer to the shore than is usual by upwards of a mile; and that this unusual course was taken when the weather was hazy, and against the warning exclamations of the experienced seamen who had the look out watch; it was further proved that the captain came on deck several times during the second mate's watch, and each time observed both the compass and the ship's position off the shore, which could be distinguished during nearly the whole course: thus the mate was shown to have conducted the ship recklessly, and the captain to have left him uncontrolled in his recklessness. The object was to cut off all corners, and run a straight and swift course. On the part of the captain it was urged, that the usage in the Liverpool and Glasgow service is, that in fine weather he should retire to rest during the four hours of the second mate's watch, that time including an unhazardous part of the voyage; this usage was proved by several experienced captains and pilots: but all these witnesses negatived the propriety of the captain's retirement in hazy weather; yet the log-book of the Orion enters the weather as "hazy and calm." Moreover, the captain was on board, and supervised the course; so it was urged that he must share the responsibility of it. For the mate it was urged, first, that the course he gave was practically correct—but he was contradicted both by Captain Robinson of the Royal Navy, the hydrographical surveyor of the coast, from whose observations the Admiralty charts are prepared, and by commanders and pilots in the service; secondly, that the compasses were wrong generally—but it was proved that they varied only one point; and thirdly, that they were falsified on this particular voyage by eight tons of iron freight stowed near to them—but it was proved that this particular cause could only vary them two points. At the end of a trial of two days, the Jury found both prisoners guilty: the Court sentenced the Captain (Henderson) to be imprisoned for eighteen months, and the mate (Williams) to be transported for seven years.

COLONIAL REFORM.

(From the Morning Chronicle, September 4.)

IT is not surprising that Earl Grey's Colonial administration has more difficulties to contend with the longer it lasts. His policy has never been one of conciliation, and the experiments which he has made in legislation have been chiefly remarkable for the ignorance which he has displayed of the elements that he wished to combine. He has successively undertaken to regulate emigration and colonisation, and he has at intervals devoted his attention to the manufacture of constitutions for the remote dependencies of the British Crown. From the rising greatness of colonial interests, he has had opportunities such as no other Minister ever enjoyed. It has been his rare good fortune to become Colonial Minister at a time when the development of the colonies is a part of the faith of the English people. He might have organised an empire with the immense means at his disposal. Unfortunately, he wanted the creative genius to impress a distinct form and character on the colonial movement of the present time. But it was still open to him, by rigorous attention to the business of his department, to be a useful, if not a brilliant Minister. That chance, however, he neglected, and he at once disappointed the hopes of those who felt the importance of colonial interests, and who had believed in Lord Howick as an active and intelligent Colonial Reformer. The experience of the last four years is sufficient to enable us to form a juster estimate of the abilities of this no longer promising nobleman. In nearly every case his legislation has proved an utter failure; and the different Parliamentary inquiries which have taken place have established his unfitness for a post of such high importance as that of Secretary for the Colonies. Had he occupied any other position in the Government, his degradation in general estimation would have been of comparatively little moment. Repeated exposure would have rendered him powerless. But remaining, as he does, the organ of official communication between the Imperial Government and the colonies, he compromises, by his want of ability and by his temper, the relations between the provinces and the mother country. The colonists naturally identify Earl Grey with the Imperial Government, and they become impatient of subjection to an authority which they know to be capricious and tyrannical. So long as the patron and defender of Sir Henry Light, Lord Torrington, and Sir Henry Ward presides over the Colonial-office, we shall be exposed to the suspicion, and perhaps to the hostility, of every colonial population.

From certain occurrences which have lately taken place in a remote colony, we are able to comprehend the mischievous effects which have been produced by the misgovernment of Earl Grey. It appears that an agitation has been commenced at Melbourne, in Australia, under the auspices of Dr. Lang, on the question of the separation of the Australian colonies from the mother-country, which appears to have been taken up warmly by a considerable number of the inhabitants. The objects of the party are to put a stop as soon as possible to the transportation of English felons; and, by means of a league and other exclusively "moral" expedients to obtain their independence of Great Britain. The movement is probably not a dangerous one, and its leader is certainly not a very wise man. Dr. Lang is neither a Washington nor a Franklin, but a colonial busybody, whose indiscretions lead him alternately to patriotism and to the debtors' prison. As yet, we have no fear of the southern hemisphere being ruled by Australian stars and stripes. Those colonies, whatever their inclination may be, have not yet acquired sufficient strength to be independent. Reflection would soon teach them the impracticable nature of such shemes, at least for the present. But that such notions should been tertained by a numerous section of the colonists, is an indication of the change in colonial feeling, caused by the ignorant despotism of the Colonial Office. The shepherds and farmers of Australia have learned to believe that it is impossible for them to obtain a hearing in Downing street; they feel that their interests are neglected, and their claims misrepresented, and they therefore gradually become estranged. They discover, from the treatment which they meet with in London, that their interests are no longer identical with those of the mother country. They begin to consider themselves aliens, retained only by a traditional allegiance, but by no tie of interest or affection. An agitation in favour of separation is the natural expression of such a feeling.

At present we can afford to smile at the noisy republicanism of a Lilliputian province, for we apprehend no immediate danger from the pastoral Australians. It affords, however, matter for grave consideration, as being a symptom of what may be looked for hereafter, if the colonies become more powerful, and if the authority of the Office remain undiminished and abused. The department exists professedly for the benefit of the colonies, but it is better known by its determined opposition to all colonial interests. But for the weakness of his victims, Lord Grey would have had a dozen rebellions. Other Ministers, on the defeat of their favourite measures, and on being proved to have been in the wrong, have been content to abandon an office which they were unable to occupy with credit. So honourable a weakness has never distinguished the present Colonial Minister; he is never so tenacious of his points, and never so jealous of his dignity, as when he knows that he is in the wrong. He would sooner embroil the Government with every colony than abandon the pleasure and patronage of office. Willing as we are to make allowances for the obstinacy and nepotism of a Grey, we must lament that those family virtues can only be exercised with the most serious risk to our colonial empire.

It has been said that mutual hostility is the natural relation between schoolmasters and their pupils. Lord Grey has adopted as his rule of action a maxim derived from the faults of the pedagogic profession. He seems to think himself most right when he is at open issue with the whole population of a colony. We cannot wonder that his character is at last duly appreciated even at the antipodes. It is by no means an astonishing result of his Ministerial career that our possessions should, from the largest continent to the smallest island, all become absolutely ungovernable. If his position be one of daily increasing difficulty, he has no one to blame but himself. The discretion of the Chief, the morality of the Office, and the modesty of the Under-Secretary, have been beyond all expectation successful in promoting turbulence and insubordination among the colonies. A system has been steadily followed of supporting colonial officers even when detected in the grossest delinquencies; the dependencies which possess Legislatures have been invariably thwarted; others have been retained under an obsolete bureaucracy; and those which were more particularly favoured received constitutions from Earl Grey, varying in absurdity in proportion to their distance from home. The most ridiculous was the New Zealand constitution, which no one ever ventured to put into operation, and which has since disappeared altogether, like the lost Decades of Livy. But we have no reason to believe that such misfortunes have impaired the confidence of "the greatest Colonial Reformer of the age." We have no means of judging whether he would be elated by success—he certainly never blushes at defeat. Foiled in a most ungenerous conflict with the Cape colony, and disgraced by the defence of Lord Torrington, whose excesses he had sanctioned and whose cause he had unhesitatingly espoused, he has it still in his power to do further mischief. We fear the infinite variety of his legislative and administrative faculties.

But the last session of Parliament has been so fruitful in colonial discussions as almost to justify a hope that the power of the Office and of Earl Grey, if not diminished, will at least be vigorously controlled. It is impossible to believe that the large number of independent members who have united in defence of colonial interests, will desist from the efforts which, though only partly successful, have reflected so much credit on those who made them. If Earl Grey were permitted to pursue his career unchecked, he would turn Dr. Lang into a hero and make the exiguous city of Melbourne declare itself a republic, by showing how odious it is possible to render the exercise of the Imperial authority. We trust, however, that the time is not far distant when the colonies will be no longer at the mercy of an unscrupulous system, directed by the caprice or obstinacy of an individual. We wish the colonies repose after the mischievous energy of Earl Grey, who, whether in or out of office, will always be consoled by the inexhaustible affection of his amiable but audacious Under Secretary.

FRANCE.

(From the Spectator, September 7.)

PRESIDENT BONAPARTE has set out on a progress through the departments of the North-west, on a visit to the great port and arsenal of Cherbourg. At present, only accounts from Evreux have been received. Here, in the department of the Eure, the President received an immense majority of votes at his election: it was to be expected therefore that his reception would be enthusiastic; so it was, but the enthusiasm was less personal than the Bonapartists would have had it. The ten thousand National Guards cried exclusively, "Vive le President!" and the enormous crowd of the general populace shouted as exclusively, "Vive la République!"

A great naval review was to take place at Cherboug on the 6th and 7th instant; in which seven line-of battle ships, and a number of steam frigates, would perform war evolutions. Our own Admiralty Lords have gone in their yacht, the Black Eagle, to the Channel Islands, and it is said they will go on to Cherbourg and be present at the review.

Attention is directed to the proceedings of the Councils General of the Departments,—bodies resembling the English county Grand Juries in status, and to some extent resembling them in function. It has become a practice of these bodies to submit to the Government legislative suggestions. Of the eighty-three Councils of France, about twenty have held their sittings; nearly all of them advise a revision of the Constitution; but the majority of them propose that the revision should be made in the form and at the period prescribed by the Constitution itself. Among the various detailed suggestions is one that the period of Louis Napoleon's Presidency shall be prolonged from the period fixed by the Constitution, of four years, to one of ten years.

INDIA.

(From the Spectator, September 7.)

THE overland mail has brought news from Bombay to the 25th July. The political news consists rather of unpleasant reports and rumours than of serious facts.

The passes of Kohat are again shut by the Affreedees: and it is thought that we shall have to make an expensive demonstration before we can open them and bring them under our control. The real reason of the hostility we encounter is said to be, not dissatisfaction on account of the altered salt-tariff, as we formerly explained, but a military jealousy of our having a practicable gun-road through regions hitherto impracticable for such messengers of peace and order.

The Sikh prisoners of Allahabad give the British authorities perpetual uneasiness: there are reports that further plots have been discovered for their liberation en masse, and some of our own Native non-commissioned officers are said to be implicated by the discoveries made. Of course, all is traced to the energetic influences of that arch intriguer the Ranee Chunda.

The Bengal Times of the 15th July describes another explosion of a commissariat fleet laden with gunpowder, at Dinapore, on the 10th. The meagre account closes with these remarks —"At first we thought the Sikhs had something to do with it; sending a tried man as a mullah, who did the deed by means of a slow match. But when you are made acquainted with the fact, that while here about 200 Dinaporian boatmen were engaged, each having an advance of from five to eight rupees, coupled with the fact that all the boatmen made their escape ere the explosion occurred, suspicion cannot but rest upon them."

One of the most interesting points in the Indian news has a melancholy personal interest. Colonel King, who commanded the Fourteenth Light Dragoons at Chilleanwallah, committed suicide on the 6th of July, stung by the public reproach of misconduct or cowardice. It will be remembered that at Chilleanwallah, Colonel King's corps, from some cause never to this day fully cleared up, got into a momentary confusion, and retreated through our own artillery with such disorderly rapidity as to ride over some of the gunners, and cause the loss of two guns, which the Sikhs made prize of. The matter was smothed over by Lord Gough, and was at last nearly forgotten, when, at a review some months since, Sir Charles Napier revived it by an expression which, perhaps unintentionally, seemed a taunt. Praising the men he said, "The men of the Fourteenth would go anywhere if properly led." It is stated that Colonel King himself certainly did not regard the expression as aimed at himself: words of his in reference to Sir Charles, used soon afterwards, are deemed to show this conclusively. But by other persons the unfortunate interpretation was put upon the words; and on this becoming matter of public remark and reaching Colonel King's ears, a deep and settled melancholy laid hold of him. In a squabble at the theatre, some of the artillerymen of the battery who were overridden by the Fourteenth at Chilleanwallah, taunted the troopers with cowardice; a serious riot ensued, and a private named M'Lean was taken before Colonel King: sentenced to punishment by the Colonel, the soldier in his irritation told Colonel King he was a coward, and referred to the very matter which had brought him into trouble. He was tried by court-martial, and sentenced to be whipped. Before the sentence was executed, he was allowed to get drunk in order to render him more callous to the pain; after being whipped, he broke loose, staggered up to Colonel King, and publicly repeated his contumelious accusations; adding a fatal paraphrase of Sir Charles Napier's words —"if the men of the Fourteenth had been properly led," &c. M'Lean was immediately tried for this gross offence, and sentenced to seven years' transportation. Sir Charles Napier, however, revised the proceedings of the Court, calling attention to some facts demanding serious notice. "1. The prisoner was allowed to get drunk in the guard-room of her Majesty's Fourteenth Light Dragoons, when under sentence of a court martial. 2. The prisoner was brought drunk to the parade. 3. Assistant-Surgeon Fasson, whose business it was closely to have examined the state of the prisoner, who was about to suffer corporal punishment, did not examine him, and did not perceive that he was intoxicated, till drink and the pain of punishment had made him so furious, that the Assistant-Surgeon's own words are, 'I thought he must be either mad or drunk.' 4. The Adjutant, Lieutenant Apthorp, equally unobserving with the Assistant-Surgeon, did not find out that the prisoner was drunk till after he had received punishment. 5. The consequence was, that the soldier was flogged when in a state of intoxication; and all this took place in the presence of Lieutenant-Colonel King the commanding-officer of the regiment. 6. When freed from the triangles, the prisoner, infuriated by having drunk nearly two bottles of arrack, and some beer in the guard-room, as proved before the Court, became outrageous and abusive, as might have been foreseen. 7. I ask the Court, therefore, to consider and to mitigate its sentence; for, however disgraceful and insubordinate the conduct of the culprit may have been, it was certainly as much produced by neglect of duty in others as by the drunkard himself. The sentence appears to me to be severe beyond all proportion to the crime, in the peculiar circumstances above stated." The Court-martial carefully considered these remarks, and begged respectfully to adhere to the sentence. Whereupon Sir Charles Napier wrote: — "Head-quarters, July 1, 1850. I am sorry that the Court felt itself called upon to adhere to a sentence which I have no power to commute, and cannot, in the extraordinary circumstances of the case, execute. I have, therefore, no alternative but to pardon the prisoner; not excused by his drunkenness, but by facts stated in my remarks to the Court on its proceeding being revised. I assure the Court, that great severity, without a due consideration being given to circumstances, is not justice, nor conducive to discipline. The prisoner is to return to his troop. C. J. NAPIER, General, Commander-in-Chief, East Indies."

Colonel King went home, arranged his affairs, and on the morning of the 6th July committed suicide, by firing a pistol overloaded with powder into his mouth: the upper part of his head was carried off, and scattered about the room. Letters were found addressed by him to the officers of the Fourteenth, to the Commander in Chief, and to his family.

NEW YORK.—The journeymen tailors of New York, dissatisfied with their wages, had combined for a general strike; but the masters holding out resolutely, the German tailors, a body of some four thousand men, had endeavoured to carry out the physical force arguments with which they have latterly become familiar in their own country. Having been resisted in their efforts to coerce the workmen of a particular master, they attempted to pull down the master's house: a small body of police marched to the spot; were attacked, and had to wage battle for some hours before they routed the horde of their assailants, two of whom were killed, and some twenty wounded in the fray. At subsequent meetings, the professional complaints assumed a tone of political exacerbation; the master workmen were branded as aristocrats, and ranked with the bloody Austrian Haynaus, Neapolitan Ferdinands, and Prussian Fredericks of tyrannical Europe. It is a remarkable feature of the movement in New York, that the Irish tailors, who amount to three thousand, are to a man "moral force" men, repudiating the hot courses of the Germans.

DRUNKENNESS IN SCOTLAND.—The ordinary calculation of brewers and distillers is, that in an equal quantity of strong ale and of whiskey the proportion of spirit is about twelve or fifteen in the former to a hundred in the latter. This calculation accords accurately with the popular faith, that a gill of whiskey is about equal in intoxicating power to a quart of ale, which will be found regarded as an established fact among experienced and intelligent topers. By dividing, therefore, the quantity of beer by eight, we shall, so to speak, commute it into spirits. The 240,000,000 gallons of beer consumed by England contain 30,000,000 gallons of spirits, which, added to the 9,000,000 consumed as spirits, gives 39,000,000 as the total spirituous consumption of England. The 2,480,000 gallons of beer consumed by Scotland contain 310,000 gallons of spirits, making, with the 7,000,000 she consumes as spirits, 7,310,000 gallons as her spirituous consumption. Giving these figures in a tabular form, and allocating them according to population, here is the result, which, it will easily be seen, is the main point in the question:—

Spirits consumed in Great Britain.

	No. of Gallons.	Per head of population.
England	39,000,000	2½
Scotland	7,310,000	2⅔

TYPE FOUNDERS' STRIKE.—The workmen recently in the service of Messrs. Caslon and Fagg, type founders, of Chiswell-street, have been "on strike" for some weeks—for an advance of wages, say the employers; to resist a reduction, say the men. Messrs. Caslon and Fagg have obtained other workpeople, among them some Frenchmen and Frenchwomen. The old hands have been much excited, especially at the employment of the French; placards have been carried about the streets near the factory, mobs collected, and there has been much turbulence. The upshot was the appearance of two men before the Worship Street Magistrate, last week, one charged with obstructing the thoroughfare, and the other with inciting the mob to rescue the first offender from the Police: both of them typefounders. Sutherland carried an inflammatory placard about Chiswell-street, refused to move away when cautioned by the Police, and shouted to the crowd, "French invasion, French invasion!" He was arrested. Richardson followed the officers, and urged a large mob to interfere in Sutherland's behalf. Mr. Child, for the prisoners, admitted that they had acted illegally, though merely from an erroneous impression that walking about with a placard was allowable. If leniently treated, they would not offend again. Mr. Hammill ordered them to put in bail to keep the peace, and fined Richardson 40s. for obstructing the Police and inciting a rescue.

WASTE OF MONEY.—No mistakes are more sincerely mourned over in after life than a foolish waste of money in youth. The thing is altogether a matter of habit, and he who does not set his habits right in this particular, will lament it all his days. But the young man, because his real wants are few, imagines they always will be. Because he has to provide for himself alone, he has no idea that others are to be dependent upon him. He has health, youth, energy, and strength, and he forgets that they will not always last.—Burnap.

CREATION OF CARDINALS.—From Rome we learn that a Consistory was to be held in the first fortnight of the present month, for the appointment of a batch of Cardinals. The Romans regard with jealousy the great number of foreigners to be admitted into the Sacred College on this occasion. There are to be three French Cardinals—the Archbishops of Rheims, Besançon, and Toulouse; three German Cardinals—the Archbishops of Cologne, Innspruck, and the Primate of Hungary; two Spanish Cardinals—the Archbishops of Seville and Toledo; one English Cardinal—Dr. Wiseman; one Neapolitan Cardinal—M. Corenzi; and three Roman Cardinals—Monsignori Fornari (apostolic nuncio at Paris), Roberto Roberti (Vice-President of Rome and the Comarca), and Pecci (the Bishop of Gubbio), who distinguished himself by his resistance to the revolution.

FEARGUS O'CONNOR'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.—Mr. O'Connor has commenced a magazine entitled the National Instructor; and the Freethinker's Magazine contains the following notice of it:—No. I. is anything but an instructor. Its staple, which is to be continued in each number, is a "Life of the Editor," by himself—a most difficult task to any one but a man in possession of that modesty for which Mr. F. O'Connor is notorious. Its style is essentially superlative, and the following sentences will convey the tone of the article:—"My grandfather was the wealthiest man in the kingdom.—Ditto kept most splendid establishment. —My father and Uncle Arthur were perhaps two of the finest looking men in the kingdom. —Ditto most eloquent ditto.—Ditto most highly educated ditto.—My father's domain was the most splendid ditto.—My uncle Arthur passed through such an ordeal that no man in this world has ever experienced.—My brother Roderick is the wealthiest man in the colony of New South Wales.—My brother, Francis Burdett O'Connor, was Prime Minister and Commander in Chief to Bolivar, and possesses an immense territory.—Ditto has spent an immense fortune in promoting the welfare of the poor.—Ditto is, like myself, detested by the wealthy, but loved by the poor.—My uncle Arthur made the most splendid speech delivered on Catholic Emancipation.—My brother Arthur is the author of some of the ablest works ever written.—I possess letters which some persons would give me many thousands of pounds for, but would rather crack stones on the road than sell them.—I have passed through an ordeal that no other man would survive."

A "GENTLE LADYE."—A Mrs. Simmonds, who, it appears, can be heard of at the Crown Inn, Salford, challenges Mrs. Wilkinson, or any other female in England, to a match at rifle, pistol, or pigeon shooting, for 500 guineas. The expression of Mrs. Simmonds is very startling; she says she "is open to shoot Mrs. Wilkinson or any other female in England."

"HYDRO-CARBON GAS."

THE Directors of the Australian Gas-Light Company having observed that it is proposed to form a Company in Sydney for the manufacture of the Gas patented by Mr. Stephen White, of Manchester, and called "Hydro-carbon" Gas, think it right to state publicly, that an offer having been made to them, on the part of the patentee, to supply that Gas to their Company, they have instituted a strict inquiry into the merits of the patent, with the view of ascertaining whether it would be advantageous to the Company and their consumers that the offer should be accepted.

The Directors find that the principal material employed in the manufacture of Mr. White's gas is resin; that the experiment is by no means new, having been extensively conducted by the late Professor Daniell, so long as twenty-five years ago, and practically carried out by Gas Companies in Liverpool, Bristol, Hull, Taunton, and other English cities; but that it was ultimately abandoned, as oil gas had previously been, on the ground of its expensiveness, having involved some of the parties in very heavy losses, in one instance to the extent of £50,000.

They find also that Mr. White's experiment is yet in its infancy, his manufactory at Southport not having been in operation, at the date of the latest advices, a complete half year; so that the question of its relative economy and profitableness, in comparison with coal gas, remains, so far as his own experience is concerned, wholly undetermined.

They find, moreover, so far as they have been able to collect, that the general opinion of Chemists and Gas Engineers in England is decidedly unfavourable to Resin Gas. Dr. Ure, declaring it to be demonstrable, "as clearly as noon-day, that resin can never compete with pitcoal in the production of Gas-Light;" and that the Gas Companies there, whose interest it manifestly is to encourage and adopt every means of reducing the cost of production, have not, even under the improved manipulations said to have been introduced by Mr. White, deemed it advantageous to substitute resin for coal.

Under these circumstances, the Directors have had no alternative but to decline the offer above referred to; but they are prepared, nevertheless, to receive with candour any proofs which may hereafter be adduced in favour of Mr. White's process; and in the event of their being satisfied as to its alleged advantages, to treat with the patentee for the right of using his patent in their own manufacture.

By order of the Board,
R. MANSFIELD, Secretary.
Gas Company's Office, December 18.

THE MAYORALTY.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—Opinion appears to be much divided as to the probable result of Mr. Foster's application to the Court for a rule nisi, the object being the ejection of Mr. Hill from the civic chair, and placing Alderman Thurlow therein. The learned Barrister depends mainly on the 27th and 29th clauses of the Sydney Corporation Act, contending that the Mayor, being the Returning Officer, was disqualified from being a candidate, and was in the same position as the Sheriff of a county, who could not return himself.

With this kind of law I have nothing to do. It may be that the Imperial Act for regulating parliamentary elections in the mother country will ride rough shod over our Municipal Act—that remains to be seen.

The 19th, 22nd, and 34th clauses declare that Aldermen, Councillors, Assessors, and Auditors, are eligible for re-election, and the 25th clause enacts that the Mayor must be chosen from the Aldermen and Councillors. In no part of the Act is it declared that the Mayor is eligible or ineligible for re-election. Then what is the fair interpretation to be put on the 3rd clause of said Act, which says that the Mayor, Aldermen, Councillors, Assessors, and Auditors shall hold the offices to which they were respectively elected under the old Act? Again the 53rd clause declares, in express terms, that insolvency, compounding with creditors, and absence, shall disqualify any Mayor, Alderman, &c., of the said city. The 31st declares that the Mayor shall, during the continuance of his office, continue to be a member of the said Council; and that he shall continue a Councillor of said city until the first day of November after he shall cease to be Mayor.

Then how stands Mr. Hill? On the 9th of last month he ceased to be the "Elected Mayor of Sydney," by the old as well as the new Act, he is a Councillor for one year afterwards; but for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of the new Act, is appointed Mayor from the 9th of November to the 31st December. Would any one argue that the Legislature meant, in conferring honour upon a citizen, to disqualify him from all the rights, privileges, and immunities of citizenship? It is obvious that the present Act has reference to Mayors elected under the Act only. It might be that the objections would be good against any Mayor who held his office by election under this Act; but to suppose the appointment of Mr. Hill to the Mayorship for seven weeks, deprives him of his position as a City Councillor, is above my comprehension.

I am, yours, &c.,

The most satisfactory references can be given.

WILD INDIAN OF THE RED DESERT,

on his splendid and unequalled cream-coloured charger Paulina, and exhibit the horse at full speed, pourtraying the striking features in the character of those warlike race of human beings.

PERFECTION IN BLACKING is now obtained in L. HARRISON'S Patent Japan Jet Blacking, considered by the best judges in London to be far superior either to Day and Martin's or Warren's, being manufactured on purely chemical principles, is warranted to keep a jet black polish; it softens and improves the leather, and it is in every respect the best blacking ever offered in the colony. Having been so much approved of in London, several friends of the proprietor, knowing its excellent qualities, have advised him to introduce it in Sydney, being fully persuaded it only requires a trial to prove that it is superior to any ever offered to the public, here or elsewhere. To be had wholesale at the Office, No. 6, Bridge-street, and sold retail by most of the vendors of Blacking in Sydney.

READ! MARK! LEARN!

THE following are a few (out of hundreds) of the voluntary statements of parties who have experienced benefit from the use of Holloway's Pills and Ointment, IN THIS COLONY:—

A CURE OF FITS.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Henry Whiting, boot and shoemaker, Red Bank, Stonequarry. February, 1847.

SIR,—I have for many years past been troubled with a falling sickness, frequently dropping down at my work or in the street, and could get no relief from any one until I tried Holloway's Pills, and now, by the use of them, I am completely cured.

To Mr. J. K. Heydon

CURE OF THIRTY-FIVE ULCERS.

To Mr. J. K. HEYDON.

Molong, September 21, 1848.

SIR,—I owe a debt of gratitude to Professor Holloway, for my almost miraculous cure, after seven years of suffering, caused by exposure to wet and cold, and the undue use of mercurial medicines. When I first commenced to use the Pills and Ointment, I had thirty-five ulcers on my body, and a constant head-ache, and pains all over me. My throat had got so affected that I was obliged at last to live entirely on gruel. Having spent upwards of two hundred pounds in medicine and medical advice to no purpose, except that of making me worse, I tried Holloway's Pills and Ointment, by means of which, and the blessing of God, I am now in the enjoyment of excellent health. My feeling for others similarly circumstanced, as well as my gratitude to Mr. Holloway, compel me to send you this communication.—I am, sir, your obedient servant,

JEREMIAH REED.

P.S.—I am at present in the employment of Messrs. Syers, Brothers, Meadows, near Wellington.

CASE OF LIVER COMPLAINT.

Campbelltown, April 21, 1848.

To MR. HEYDON

SIR,—I feel it a duty incumbent on me to let the community at large know the wonderful cure that has been performed on me by the effects of Holloway's Medicine. I have for the last six months been afflicted with the liver complaint, and at last was compelled to take to my bed in a very low state, so bad that I did not think I would ever rise in health again. After trying medical aid and finding no relief, I was advised by Mr. William Bursill to try the medicine aforenamed, which I did, and after one or two doses of Holloway's Pills, and rubbing in the Ointment, I found great relief, and by strictly following the rules laid down by Mr. Holloway, and using his Pills and Ointment for six weeks, I find myself in the enjoyment of as good health as I ever possessed in my life. The truth of this statement is incontestible, as there is not one of my neighbours but could testify the same.—I remain, &c.

ROBERT ELKINS, Blacksmith.

ANOTHER CURE OF DISEASED LIVER

To Mr. J. K. HEYDON

SIR,—About eighteen months since, I was dangerously attacked with a liver complaint, for which I consulted the two medical men of the district, but derived no benefit from either of them; in fact, I was so bad that one of them told me "he could see no hopes of my recovery," and gave me up. I was afterwards advised to try Holloway's Pills and Ointment, which I did, and after the continued use of them for seven weeks (according to the directions accompanying the medicines) I am now entirely cured; and for the benefit of those that may be similarly affected, I have great pleasure in giving it publicity.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

WILLIAM RODGERS.

Ravensworth, Hunter's River, January 7, 1849.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF A DESPERATE SKIN DISEASE IN INDIA.

The Editor of the Mofussilite (India) newspaper has inserted the following editorial article in his paper:—"We know for a fact, that Holloway's Pills and Ointment act in a most wonderful manner upon the constitution, as an eccentric Coolie, called Eliza, employed in our establishment, was affected with myriads of Ringworms, which defied all the Meerut Doctors, and promised to devour the poor man before he was under ground: we tried "Holloway" upon him, and in a month he was perfectly restored to his former condition and cleanliness of skin. The effect was miraculous."—[The gentleman who narrates this circumstance is a native of New South Wales, of the highest respectability, and has, in a communication to his relations in the colony, particularly called their attention to the merits of Holloway's medicines.]

This wonderful Medicine can be recommended with the greatest confidence for any of the following diseases:—

Ague	Jaundice
Asthma	Liver complaint
Bilious complaints	Lumbago
Blotches on the skin	Piles
Bowel complaints	Prickly heat
Colics	Rheumatism

VALUABLE LANDED PROPERTIES.

FOR ABSOLUTE SALE.

Offering most eligible investments for the profitable outlay of capital, and for the securing of property at a low rate, paying excellent interest, and capable of considerable improvement at very small trouble and expense.

THE CROSS ROADS INN, HOUSE AT REDFERN, BUILDING ALLOTMENTS.

MR. GEORGE A. LLOYD has received instructions to sell by auction, at the City Mart, 474, George-street,

On WEDNESDAY, 22nd January, 1851,

At 12 o'clock.

THE "CROSS ROADS INN." This highly valuable property is situate near Liverpool, at the junction of the Cowpasture and Campbelltown Roads, and being so old established a house requires no recommendation from the hands of the Auctioneer. It is a substantially built brick building, with extensive stabling and out-buildings; now let to an excellent tenant, and will be sold with thirty acres of land appurtaining thereto.

THE HOUSE AT REDFERN is a substantial building, situate in George-street; contains four rooms, with other requisite conveniences, small garden, &c.; possesses a frontage of 25 feet, by 100 in depth, and is let at a fair rental to a good tenant.

ALLOTMENTS AT PADDINGTON, situate in Victoria-street, immediately behind Beard's Hotel, and a most eligible site for building purposes.

Further particulars can be ascertained at the Rooms of the Auctioneer.

Terms at sale. 10875

WATERVIEW BAY, BALMAIN.

IMPORTANT SALE

Of an Extensive Plot of Ground, beautifully situated, fronting the waters of Waterview Bay, forming most beautiful Villa Allotments, subdivided as per plan.

The great difficulty now experienced in obtaining anything like an eligible site for building in the neighbourhood of Balmain, (from the fact of nearly all the property being in the hands of parties not disposed to sell.) renders it incumbent upon the Auctioneer to direct particular attention to the Valuable Plot of Ground (carefully divided) now thrown open to public competition.

BY ORDER OF THE MORTGAGEE.

MR. GEORGE A. LLOYD

Has the pleasure of announcing to the public that he has received instructions from the Mortgagee, to submit for unreserved sale, by public competition, at the City Mart, 474, George-street.

On WEDNESDAY, January 22, 1851.

At 12 o'clock.

THAT EXTENSIVE PORTION OF LAND, situate at WATERVIEW BAY, BALMAIN, bounded on one side by the Strathean Estate, extending up William-street from the Bay to the main road, thereby commanding very extensive frontage, with easy access.

The property is surrounded by a numerous and respectable neighbourhood, daily increasing in wealth and importance.

As parties unacquainted with the spot can inspect for themselves with so very little trouble, the Auctioneer considers it unnecessary to enter into any description of the many inducements offered for purchasing, comprising a view unsurpassed of the North Shore, Sydney, South Head, and the surrounding country, the benefit of a sea-side residence within ten minutes ride of the town, an admirable aspect, stone for building close at hand, and the land itself capable of growing anything; in short, a visit to the property is all that the Auctioneer asks to ensure a spirited competition.

Every other information required may be obtained upon application at the Rooms, 474, George-street.

Title, first-rate.—Terms, liberal. 10879

"FREEMASONS' TAVERN."

THAT MOST EXTENSIVE, WELL-KNOWN, AND COSTLY BUILDING,

IN THE

TOWNSHIP OF MARULAN.

In bringing this very valuable property before the public, the auctioneer considers that the mere mention of the fact of the intended sale, with time and place, would be quite sufficient to ensure a ready offer, from its being so well known to all parties acquainted with the country. But there being now many capitalists on the look out for eligible investments who may not be acquainted with this property, he considers it advisable to give an outline of the particulars, for their information.

The present proprietor, Mr. GOODMAN HART, having determined upon removing from the country, has favoured with positive instructions to sell by auction, at the City Mart, 474, George-street, Sydney,

MR. GEORGE A. LLOYD

On WEDNESDAY, 22nd January, 1851,

At 12 o'clock precisely,

(Unless previously disposed of by private contract.)

THOSE extensive, substantially-built, and highly valuable premises, situate in the most commanding spot in the township of Marulan, and so well known as the

"FREEMASONS' TAVERN,"

WITH

THE STORE ADJOINING THERETO.

For the convenience of intending purchasers it is intended to sell the property in two lots (the whole comprising an area of half an acre), as sub-divided on the plan, which can be inspected at the rooms.

The "Freemason's Tavern" is a most extensive and costly building, and to be thoroughly and properly appreciated must be seen. The range of buildings extend upwards of One Hundred and Fifty Feet back from the main frontage. It comprises 16 most commodious rooms, with taprooms, kitchens, out-offices, stabling for 13 horses, coach houses, barn, storehouse, with every other possible convenience, all finished in the best possible manner without regard to cost. The rooms are handsomely corniced and fitted up, stucco plastered, and every room is furnished with Venetian shutters. The buildings are all of stone and brick, and have scarcely been erected three years. A large and elegant verandah surrounds a considerable portion of the premises.

As a stand for business the situation is not to be equalled, being at the junction of the Bungonia Road leading to Queanbeyan, Braidwood, Maneroo, &c., and the Great Southern Road leading to Port Phillip and the intermediate towns of Yass, Gunning, Gundagai, &c. In fact, the whole of the immense traffic to the southward must pass by the door, ensuring a large, increasing, and highly lucrative business.

☞ The fixtures, bar fittings, and entire furniture, can be taken at a valuation if required.

The Store adjoining is a large stone building not yet quite finished, but is a very substantial erection, and when completed would command an undoubtedly safe and profitable trade.

There is a large garden, well laid out, in the rear of these properties; there are also extensive stockyards at command.

Any further particulars can be obtained upon application at the rooms of the auctioneer, where also a large and detailed plan of the property can be seen.

WINGELLO ESTATE.

SITUATE IN THE COUNTIES OF CAMDEN AND ARGYLE.

TOGETHER WITH, ABOUT 4000 SHEEP.

IMPORTANT TO CAPITALISTS, FAMILIES, AND OTHERS.

MORT AND BROWN

Have received positive instructions from the proprietor to submit to public competition, early in the month of February, at their Mart, in George-street, Sydney,

ALL that important and highly improved Freehold Estate, known as

WINGELLO PARK,

Lying and situate in the counties of Camden and Argyle, on the main South Road from Sydney (via Goulburn and Yass) to Port Phillip, South Australia, &c. It contains, in the first place, 2240 acres of land, by grants from the Crown, so judiciously chosen that each have frontages to the Uringalla chain of ponds (which form the boundaries of the counties of Camden and Argyle), the Wollondilly and Patrick's rivers, and other streams; and secondly, of 4800 acres adjoining, leased from the Crown by pre-emptive right, making the aggregate contents of this estate upwards of seven thousand acres, besides the run of a most extensive common reserve which surrounds very of the grant.

THE HOMESTEAD.

Contains about 580 acres, enclosed by 4½ miles of a ring fence, and subdivided into 10 paddocks, embracing upwards of 4 miles of fencing, exclusive of the above, 3 of which are under culture, and the rest have been so laid out that the Uringalla ponds are in each of them, and which have at all seasons a bountiful supply of pure fresh water, and are naturally ornamental in appearance, as they are so extensive that on many of them a 74 might float.

WINGELLO RESIDENCE

Consists of an excellent Cottage Ornee, 92 feet 6 inches long, by 41 feet 6 inches broad, including a spacious verandah 8 feet 6 inches wide, the entire length of the frontage of the building facing the lawn and garden. It contains eleven good rooms, adapted for every domestic and other use, besides a lobby and passage.

THE GARDEN AND ORCHARD

Contain about 1½ acres, and are tastefully and judiciously laid out with choice fruit trees, such as apple, pear, cherry, plum, &c; gooseberry, currant, and raspberry bushes, vines, &c., and has in it a GARDENER'S HOUSE.

In the rear is detached kitchen, pantry, and storeroom, stable and coach-house, harness and tool-room, carpenter's shop, servants' cottages, fowl-house, poultry yards, piggery, sheds for carts, &c.

THE BARN

is a cut ashler stone shingled building, standing on a slight eminence about 500 feet from the house, being 88 feet long by 34 feet 6 inches wide from out to out, and 14 feet high to the eaves. It was built in the year 1847, consequently nearly new. It is partitioned off into four apartments, consisting of a thrashing floor, a storeroom, a granary, and a sheep-shearing-room, with double-battened floor, opening to two sheep-yards on one side, and on the other to a first-rate patent modern iron screw Wool Press fixed for working. Around this building are stack and barn yards, milking, stock, and slaughter-yards, &c.

In what is termed the mail paddock, (so named from the daily transit of the Sydney Royal Mail,) there are sheep pens and yards 211 feet long by 90 feet broad, and at the entrance-gate of the estate is the late Mounted Police Station, consisting of a logged and shingled stable 55 by 24 feet, cottages, garden, &c.

Sheep stations are judiciously formed on other parts of this estate, and on a 1000 acre grant named Dunmore, situate on the bank of the Wollondilly River, opposite Arthursleigh, or Eden Forest, distant about four miles from the homestead is abundance of the celebrated Argyle marble, (which in beauty is not excelled in any part of the world,) limestone, slate, &c., and COPPER ORE has been dug therefrom, as this portion of the property lies only about seven miles distant in the meridian line of Major Lockyer's copper mine.

To capitalists and gentlemen of family this very complete and ready-made estate is particularly recommended, being in the first place complete for an immediate comfortable and spacious residence, with every domestic convenience attached thereto; and, secondly, the rich quality of the soil renders it fit for agricultural and dairy purposes, sheep and cattle breeding, grazing, &c.,

THERE BEING RUN FOR 8000 SHEEP, and its small distance from the capital enhances materially its capability for agriculture. Its situation is also very healthy and salubrious, and the general character of the country it embraces is so much like a gentleman's park in England, that persons residing thereon would consider themselves perfectly at home.

Another desideratum which must not be lost sight of, is offered in the advantages attendant upon the close proximity of the Railway, which will enable the proprietor to bring to market the beautiful marbles and precious minerals with which it is well known the estate abounds, and to land the results of his pastoral and agricultural pursuits at a very trifling cost in the chief market of the colony—the emporium of the southern seas.

☞ The Sheep will be found of very superior quality, being very good woolled, and in sound, healthy condition.

Intending purchasers are invited to inspect the estate—the plans of which may be seen, and terms learnt, at the Rooms of the Auctioneers. 10863
